Lines of a Pattern

Midst the lines in a pattern of a life,
A girl
crossed unawares a line
and greeted with shy boldness and eager bewilderment
A new pattern,
strange,
compelling,
to be explored . . . experienced.

There is warmth,
reached for,
quietly intense,
necessary,
binding in the anticipation of the Tomorrow.
Warmth known
in laughing gladness,
in achievement shared,
in unspoken lines called friendship.

Authority
from other patterns, white uniformed, speaks
knowledge,
wisdom,
and challenge,
and lives
entering with quiet assuredness
a strong line
Into the new pattern.

And midst the new pattern
a girl
faces fellow man—
familiar line,
but new pattern writes his name
patient . . .
And his pattern, shadowed.

A girl knows lines
of fear written with courage,
of peace written with hope,
of hope written with God,
and from the new pattern
she constructs lines
saying,
I care.
Shadowed pattern breaks
with light exultant.

Somewhere,
midst the lines in a pattern
of a life,
A girl
crossed unawares a line . . .
She is a woman,
and it is written with a line called Nurse.

Judith M. Prentice, N. Y.

Dedication

The family, our basic social institution, is among other things the first teacher, the prime conditioner and molder of behavior and attitudes. It provides the setting in which adjustive patterns are established and it is the source and determinant of the quality of future generations.

In this period of turmoil and fluidity, families, regardless of Class and origin, are moving toward an industrialized, urbanized civilization. Yet, our parents, during this transitory period, have still been able to maintain the traditional support, security and stability for us, their children.

We see the family with two vital functions: the rearing of children and stabilization of the adult. We also see an alteration in the role of women — that of equality.

Parents are the basis of our families, our thoughts, our morals and mores. Without them, without this strong foundation we would never be able to accept the responsibilities that are ever present and ever increasing in the nursing profession.

For these reasons we say thank you Mother and Father. Thank you for the support, sacrifice and faith you have given us. Thank you for the pride and interest you have taken in us. Most of all thank you for allowing us enough individuality and independence to accomplish a most difficult task — maturity.

Mrs. Edythe G. Kistler, R.N., B.S.

Director of Education

You have now attained the goal for which you have been striving. Three years ago, you accepted a challenge—the Nursing Profession—which then, meant learning and mastering the skills required in caring for the ill.

As you progressed, you realized Nursing involved so much more. Some of your experiences were pleasant while others were traumatic. The experiences themselves were not as important as your individual reactions to them. Your real progress can be measured by your ability to become less concerned with your own well-being and more concerned with the physical, emotional and spiritual needs of your patients. It has been gratifying to watch your progress from one who needed understanding and guidance to one who now gives that understanding to others.

Your progress can also be measured by your unusual ability to work together as a Class. You should have many pleasant memories from this association and from the friendships which you have made.

Now an even greater challenge is before you—you are a graduate Professional Nurse. May you maintain the abilities and enthusiasm you possessed as a student and may you always be humble and dedicated to the task before you.

My best wishes to each of you in your chosen profession.

Hahnemann Hospital Student Nurses Chorus led by Mrs. Reiley is composed of interested Freshmen, Juniors, and Seniors. They meet once a week to practice. The chorus presents a program at Christmas for the Hahnemann Hospital Alumni, participates in an Easter Program and Capping Ceremony. Accompanied by Miriam Swigart and vocal soloist, M. Brandreth, the chorus proved to be an entertainment highlight of the year.

Ensemble

M. Swigart, P. Blake, M. Brandreth, E. Bruny, K. O'Keefe, N. Pierson, A. St. Petery, D. Eisenman, K. Herring

A newly organized group this year is the Hahnemann Instrumental Ensemble. They made their first appearance in the Christmas pageant and a successive one at the Easter Program. In both of these were presented instrumental and vocal solos and several orchestral arrangements of a religious nature. In June, the group participated in the "Vaudeville—1964," production and offered entertaining excerpts from Richard Rogers' "The King and I" and "Carousel." The girls have a great deal of enjoyment working together and feel that this is a good opportunity to continue in their musical interest.

The Nurse's Christian Fellowship is an active group of Protestant students. Meetings are held weekly on Wednesday evenings and planned programs consist of a great variety of interesting items. Guest speakers join the group periodically and fine films are a real highlight. This year the organization was very instrumental in helping to present the Christmas and Easter programs for the school. Miss Schroder, the faculty sponsor, is extremely helpful and supportive.

The Newman Club, an organization for Catholic student nurses, traces its origin to Cardinal Newman, whose aim in life was to further the cause of the Church to all people. The organization wishes to state clearly the principles upon which one may act with a safe conscience in all circumstances and to further spiritual gain.

The club, composed of forty members, meets bi-monthly under the direction of Father J. Shields and Miss M. Pezzano, faculty moderator.

Vital Sign

First row: E. Bruny, K. O'Keefe, C. Craine, R. Seymour, J. Carr
Second row: E. Knauss, G. Treleven, G. Rauch, A. St. Petery, G. Deptula

One of the popular entertaining pieces of literature at the Nurses' Residence is the "Vital Sign" — the school's newspaper. With Karen O'Keefe and Carolyn Craine as co-editors (and an ambitious staff to back them, the group works diligently to publish one issue a month). The "Vital Sign" keeps the students up to date on activities of all the classes and organizations. It also includes such entertainment as the latest chuckles, monthly crossword puzzles, poems and original compositions. The staff would like to extend their deep appreciation to their moderator, Mrs. M. Greensfelder, for her sincere interest in helping improve the quality of the "Vital Sign."

Second row: C. Wanner, R. Seymour, F. Fitzgerald, B. Henderson, C. McCleaf, L. Smith, B. Whitelock

The Yearbook, a Hahnemann tradition, is also produced in an effort to place before each graduating class a blueprint of patterns. As you thumb through these pages, we ask you to share with us moments of seriousness and joy. In the pages of "The Vigil" the life of a student nurse is pictorially reproduced through the efforts of the entire student body.

The Hahnemann School of Nursing Basketball Team, coached by Mary Ann Swetkoff, a physical education major from Temple University, is an active participant in the Student Nurses Basketball League of Philadelphia. New uniforms were provided for the team in the school's colors of blue and gold. The season was climaxed by a dinner given in honor of the team at Keugler's Restaurant at which time Rosalie J. Seymour was awarded the "Most Versatile Player" trophy. The entire team received a "Good Sportsmanship" award from the coach.

Cheerleaders

S. Walker, M. Pilik, B. Burke, K. Carroll, C. Bray

"Go, Wildcats, Go" . . . , shout the Hahnemann Cheerleaders as they spur the big team to victory. Each year a number of girls are chosen out of those who try out for cheerleading. Without their support, the spirit which is necessary for the success of any team, would be lacking. Composed of five spirited students, these girls are ready to travel with the team to each game taking with them the enthusiasm and support of their school. This year's cheerleaders were: Senior: C. Bray. Juniors: K. Carroll, B. Burke. Freshmen: S. Walker, M. Pilik.

The Student Council officers are elected by the student body with each class electing its representatives. It is composed of one member for each ten students. Three faculty advisors guide the council which meets the third Tuesday of each month to discuss pertinent school affairs. Disciplinary problems and the planning of school activities are but a few of the many functions of council. Through this organization, the student body is encouraged to act collectively.

Remember When . . .

Dace hid in the bathroom of the ninth floor from the night supervisor.

Sue's cap sailed over Broad Street from twelfth floor during the Mummer's Parade.

Fran ran the autoclave in accident ward with no "goodies" in it.

Barbie had a petite mal for Jr. class block.

"He didn't call" Lee.

Louise learned how to spell Dr. Fuchs and Dr. Brest's name correctly.

Bonnie was sent to the morgue with a set of dentures.

Benzy prepped the wrong leg in pediatrics.

A.B. tried to make "Playboy" magazine.

Mary Ann got caught by the supervisor for scrubbing the floor with a wash cloth.

Joyce's cap fell in the dirty amphyl in O.B. clinic.

Markuze put the paper bag over the patient's head and stopped his hic-coughs.

Clara was asked to give a bedpan, and replied she had not yet had the procedure.

Cindy administered rectal aminophylline with the patient's atomizer.

Pam ran 100 miles.

Pat gave saccharine to the patient instead of nitroglycerine.

Connie took Dr. Mason's pages for Dr. Fuchs by mistake.

Mary Ellen met a certain doctor's brother.

Patsy saw a peeping Tom at the skylight while she was taking a bath.

Irene hurt her finger playing basketball and had a week's vacation.

Mary wrote a letter to Florida.

Patsy K. rode up and down the elevator and couldn't get the door open.

Lee caught Dr. Petti in the examining room in his shorts.

Karen O. took a nap in the bathroom on fourteenth floor.

Miriam told Dr. Weinstein the baby weighed fifteen pounds.

Dr. Shade heard Elaine say "Look, Carol, he doesn't have any shorts on."

B.J. contaminated the knife on Dr. Pontarelli's glasses.

Peggy S. played with the BP machine in Recovery Room and exploded mercury all over.

Barb clipped Dr. Zekavat's back with an allis.

Carol contaminated the amphyl in D.R.

Marie helped baptize a baby with coke in the accident ward.

Linda passed the knife — blade first!

St. Pete made up her own time on fifth surg.

George dropped a test tube containing a minute prostate biopsy on the floor in the O.R.

Class Will

Joanne Markuze leaves her theater tickets to Rose Previti.

Fran Fitzgerald leaves her patterns to her little sister.
